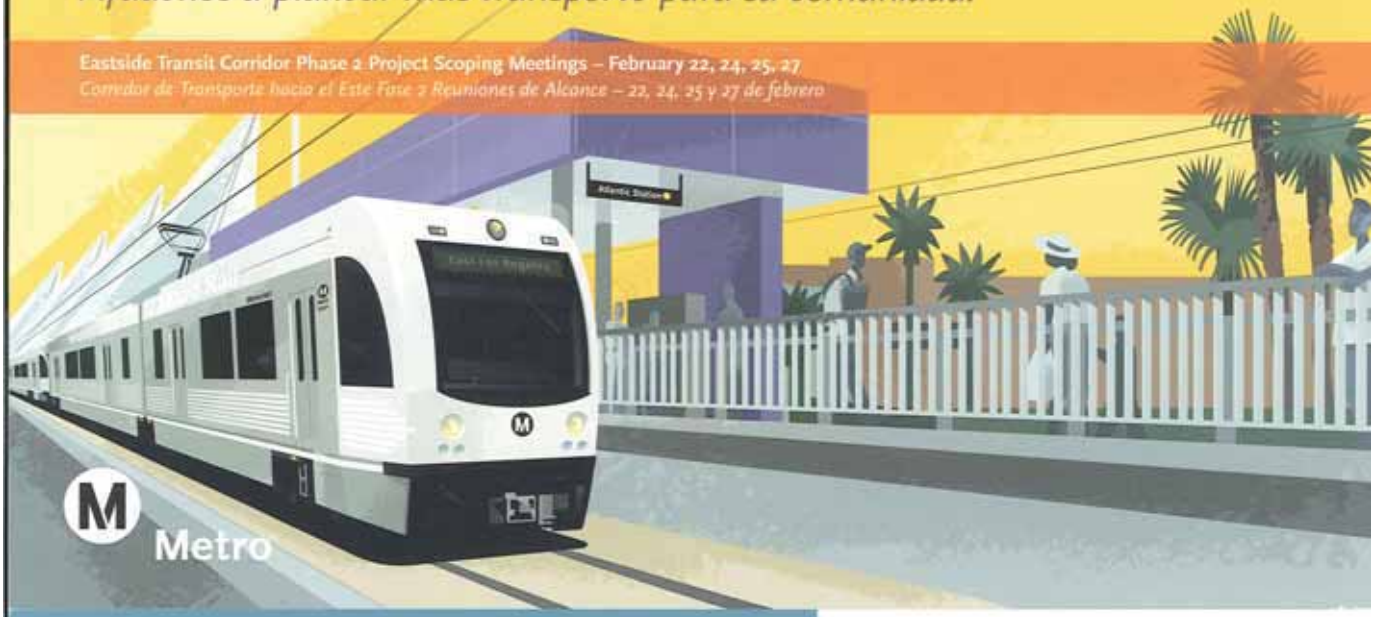
Eastside Transit Corridor Phase 2 Project Scoping Meetings – February 22, 24, 25, 27

Corredor de Transporte hacia el Este Fase 2 Reuniones de Alcance – 22, 24, 25 y 27 de febrero



Come help us scope out alternatives to extend the Metro Gold Line.

Metro is initiating the environmental work for the Eastside Transit Corridor Phase 2 by holding Scoping Meetings for the various alternatives including:

> State Route 60 Light Rail Transit

> Washington Boulevard Light Rail Transit

The scoping meetings are the first step in the preparation of a Draft Environmental Impact Statement/Report in accordance with NEPA and CEQA requirements. This is your opportunity to learn about the proposed project and provide comments. Content provided at these meetings will be identical.

For more information please call 213.922.5012 or visit metro.net/eastsidephase2 and facebook.com/metroeastsidephase2

Asista y ayúdenos a evaluar alternativas para ampliar Metro Gold Line.

Metro está comenzando el trabajo ambiental para el Corredor de Transporte hacia el Este Fase 2 llevando a cabo reuniones de alcance para considerar las diferentes alternativas, incluyendo:

> Transporte de tren ligero por la Ruta Estatal 60

> Transporte de tren ligero por el Bulevar Washington

Las reuniones de alcance son los primeros pasos en la preparación de un Borrador de la Declaración/Reporte de Impacto Ambiental, de acuerdo con los requisitos establecidos por NEPA y CEQA. Esta es su oportunidad para aprender sobre el proyecto propuesto y comentar comentarios. El contenido que se presente en estas reuniones será el mismo.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Metro sets environmental community scoping meetings Feb. 22-27 for Eastside Transit Corridor Phase 2 project

As environmental work continues for the Eastside Transit Corridor Phase 2 project, Metro will hold four community scoping meetings on February 22-27 in Pico Rivera, South El Monte, Montebello and Whittier to review two build alternatives: light rail transit via State Route 60 and on Washington Boulevard in addition to a transportation systems management (improving bus services), and a no-build alternative.

The Eastside Transit Corridor Phase 2 project area consists of portions of eight jurisdictions including the cities of Commerce, Montebello, Monterey Park, Pico Rivera, Rosemead, Santa Fe Springs, South El Monte, Whittier, and unincorporated areas of Los Angeles County.

The scoping meetings are the first step in the preparation of a Draft Environmental Impact Statement/Report (DEIS/DEIR) in accordance with National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) and California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA).

The public will learn about the proposed project, provide input on the alternatives and the evaluation process used to identify and mitigate environmental impacts.

The four community meetings will be held on:

Monday, February 22
Pio Pico Women's Center
6 p.m. to 8 p.m.
9214 Mines Avenue
Pico Rivera

The format of the meetings will include an open house followed by a presentation to inform participants of the environmental process and provide an opportunity to ask questions about the study and submit comments.

Since 2007, Metro has conducted an Alternative Analysis (AA) and has prepared supplemental technical studies to identify feasible routes to extend the Metro Gold Line Eastside Extension to cities farther east of Los Angeles.

Every day, approximately 50,000 commuting trips leave the area bound for central Los Angeles and 115,000 daily work trips are made within the study area, itself. These existing conditions, combined with projected population growth of 24 percent and employment growth of 15 percent over the next 30 years, illustrate the need for additional transit alternatives.

If members of the public are unable to attend any of the scoping meetings they may still submit comments by mail, fax or e-mail. The comments must be received by April 14, 2010.

The goals of the Environmental Impact Study currently underway are to identify route alternatives that provide a transit connection to the Metro Gold Line Eastside Extension Phase 1, provide a regional transit link to cities farther east of Los Angeles (including the cities of Commerce, Montebello, Monterey Park, Pico Rivera, Rosemead, Santa Fe Springs, South El Monte, Whittier, and unincorporated areas of Los Angeles County); improve transportation mobility in the project area, and plan for future projected growth and sustainability.

The scoping period is the first step in the preparation of a Draft Environmental Impact Statement/Report (DEIS/DEIR) in accordance with National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) and California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA).

L.A. MTA to review Eastside Corridor options with the public

Later this month, the Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority (LACMTA) will hold four community scoping meetings to review two alternatives for the Eastside Transit Corridor Phase 2 project.

The agency is considering plans to build a light-rail line or improve bus services along the corridor. LACMTA also is weighing a no-build alternative.

The scoping meetings are the first step in preparing a draft environmental impact statement/report. During the meetings, agency officials will review the proposed project and obtain input on the alternatives, as well as the evaluation process used to identify and mitigate environmental impacts.

Since 2007, LACMTA has analyzed alternatives and prepared supplemental technical studies to identify feasible routes to extend the Metro Gold Line Eastside Corridor to cities farther east of L.A.

Metro light rail transit planning to commence

BY BARBARA CHU
NEWS EDITOR

With plans to ease congestion on freeways and streets, the Los Angeles Metropolitan Transportation Authority (Metro) proposed two routes for a possible light rail transit (LRT), which may be completed in the next 12 years.

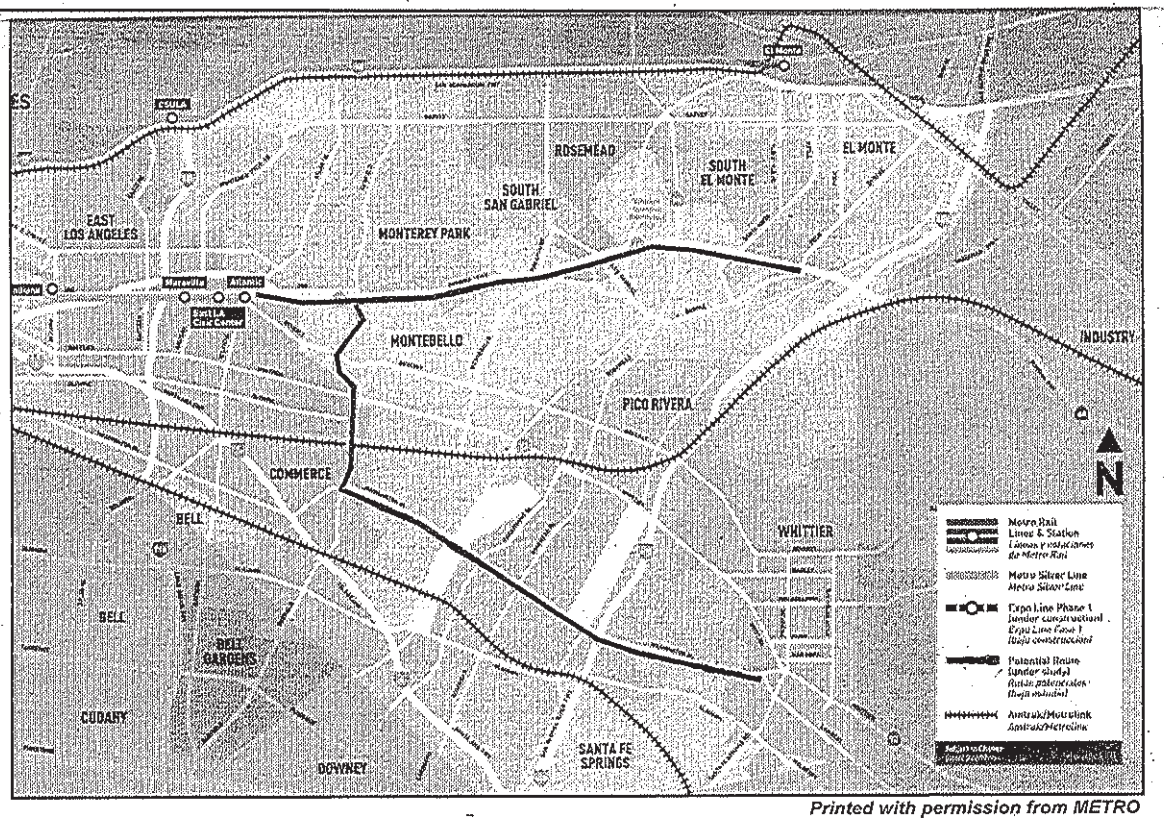
The planning began in 2007 to analyze various routes for a possible extension of the Metro Gold Line, which ends on Atlantic and Pomona Boulevards in East Los Angeles. After two years of extensive technical analysis and public input, the Metro Board approved two routes for further environmental analysis: the State Route 60 LRT and the Washington Boulevard LRT.

The two routes are currently in the analysis process. Topics, such as air quality, community effects, noise, visual impacts, traffic and safety and other resources will be considered before building will commence.

After the environmental report is completed, a final report will be submitted and preliminary engineering will begin. Following engineering, a final design will be submitted. If there is sufficient funding and commitment has been solidified, the LRT construction may begin.

"The light rail would provide transportation options for the students to access different places, such as entertainment venues, schools and hospitals and not be tied down by a car," said Project Manager Kimberly Yu. "Since students must meet certain criteria to drive, it would be great for them to be exposed to other things within the city by walking or taking public transit and exploring."

The SR-60 route is 6.9 miles long, will take 12.5 minutes to travel, is expected to have 12,270 riders daily and costs $1.8 billion. The Washington Boulevard route is 9.3 miles long, will take 17.5 minutes to travel, is expected to have 15,660 riders daily and costs $2.2 billion.



Printed with permission from METRO

HIGH SPEEDS: Metro has proposed two potential light rail routes, which will extend the Metro Gold Line: SR-60 and Washington Boulevard and may be completed in the next 12 years.

Currently, $1.27 billion has been granted by Measure R, which was passed November 2008, and other funding will come from federal reauthorization, state funding, local funding and public or private partnerships.

To encourage community involvement, comments can be addressed by a letter to Kimberly Yu Metro at 1 Gateway Plaza, MS 99-22-2 Los Angeles, CA 90012 or emailed to yuki@metro.net by April 14.

"We will continue to reach out to every community to ensure that all of the concerns of residents and businesses are addressed during the study," said Community Relations Manager Ann Kerman.

Whittier pushes for Gold Line route

Originally printed at http://www.wavenewspapers.com/news/local/east-edition/89711662.html

WHITTIER — The City Council's Eastside Gold Line Transit Subcommittee will meet Wednesday with some of the 27 cities that are members of the Gateway Cities Council of Governments for a final push to obtain support for a Washington Boulevard alignment of the planned Eastside Gold Line commuter trail route.

Fran Shields, director of community services for the city, said the deadline for interested parties and residents to submit comments for the route and its environmental impact will be April 14. After that Metropolitan Transportation Authority staff will proceed with a final environmental analysis for that route to submit to the MTA board in September 2011, she said.

In a report to the City Council March 23, Shields noted that the city had formally endorsed a Washington Boulevard route from Montebello for the Gold Line extension.

Since that resolution was passed March 9, a city task force has promoted the light rail line among residents and with surrounding cities, at community events such as the Whitter Chamber of Commerce's Wake Up Whittier breakfast, at the chamber's recent Business Expo and at Saturday's Easter event at Parnell Park, Shields said.

Whittier representatives have been working with officials of nearby cities in a coalition of support for the Washington Boulevard route, including the city of Commerce, Pico Rivera and Santa Fe Springs. It has contacted officials in La Habra Heights, who have adopted a resolution in favor of the Washington route. The Whittier task force also has made contact with La Mirada, Los Nietos School District and Whittier College.

Montebello and other cities have supported a route along the Pomona (60) Freeway.

Councilmen Joe Vinatieri and Owen Newcomer composed the council subcommittee.

They reported that the Pomona Freeway route would have four stations, run about seven miles and cost about $1.8 billion. A Washington Boulevard route would require six stations, be about 9.25 miles and cost about $2.2 billion.

However, the Whittier-Pico Rivera Route would have an estimated 15,660 passengers a day compared to 12,270 on the more northern route. Costs therefore would be $450 per rider on the freeway route and $431 per person along the Washington Boulevard route.

I-710 Freeway Improvement Project
The I-710 Freeway is a prominent feature in the City of Commerce. It is a primary goods movement corridor between the San Pedro Bay ports and inland destinations. The City of Commerce and other communities along the corridor have brought attention to the need for improvement of the I-710 freeway, to address issues related to air quality, public health, mobility, traffic safety, and the local economy.

Caltrans, Metro, and the Gateway Cities Council of Governments are working in collaboration with other funding agencies and with the corridor communities to develop a range of corridor improvement alternatives to study in the I-710 Corridor Project Environmental Impact Report/Environmental Impact Statement (EIR/EIS).

The City of Commerce has an I-710 Local Advisory Committee (LAC) that has been meeting regularly since 2008 to advise on the community's desired outcomes for the project, and to provide feedback to the project team from the perspective of residents and businesspeople in the City of Commerce. The Commerce LAC and the LACs of other corridor communities are an essential component of the community participation framework for the I-710 Corridor Project EIR/EIS.

Your participation is encouraged! Visit www.metro.net /710EIR or call Alex Hamilton, Assistant Director of Community Development at 323 722-4805 or alexh@ci.commerce.ca.us for more information on this project.

Jacob Rueda There's something wrong with the trip planner. It doesn't give trip information, just an error. The main page takes forever to load. The "arrive" is cut midway and it does not allow to choose a.m. or p.m. The simple trip planner does not offer a variety of route choices. I just scheduled a trip and it doesn't drop me off anywhere near my house.

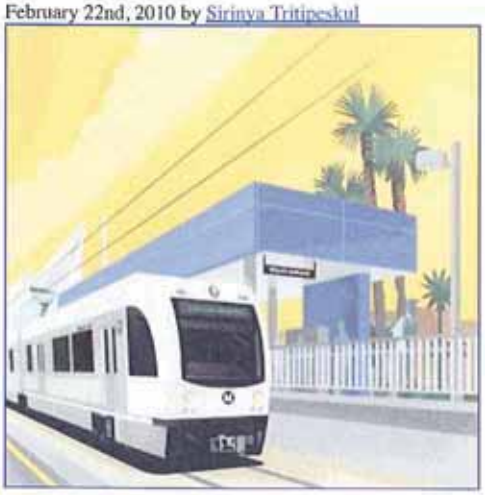
Live in the "real" Eastside? Check out scoping meetings for Eastside Extension Phase 2

February 22nd, 2010 by Sirinya Tritipeskul



Rendering of Metro Eastside Extension Phase 2 station.

Starting tonight, Metro will be holding community meetings to review four options for Phase 2 of the Eastside Extension:

- Light rail via the 60
- Light rail on Washington Boulevard
- Transportation systems management (improving bus services)
- A no-build alternative.

The meetings will be held in the communities of Pico Rivera, South El Monte, Montebello and Whittier.

The meetings, which are part of the environmental review process for the project, will enable the public to learn more about the project and provide feedback on the proposed options and the evaluation process used to identify and mitigate environmental impact.

Although most UCLA commuters residing east of downtown LA currently commute by car or vanpool because of the distance and travel time savings, my best guess is that the completion of the Eastside Extension — in concert with the regional connector and the Westside Subway — may very well make taking mass transit from that part of the County to UCLA feasible and practical on a daily basis.

The four community meetings will be held on:

Monday, February 22

Pio Pico Women's Center

6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

9214 Mines Avenue

Pico Rivera

Wednesday, February 24

South El Monte Senior Center (dining room)

6 p.m. to 8 p.m. 1556 Central Avenue,South El Monte

Thursday, February 25

Senior Center at City Park, South Wing, 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., 115 South Taylor Avenue, Montebello

Saturday, February 27

The Salvation Army Santa Fe Springs (Studio 12000), 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., 12000 East Washington Boulevard, Whittier

The format of the meetings will include an open house followed by a presentation to inform participants of the environmental process and provide an opportunity to ask questions about the study and submit comments.

Since 2007, Metro has conducted an Alternative Analysis (AA) and has prepared supplemental technical studies to identify feasible routes to extend the Metro Gold Line Eastside Extension to cities farther east of Los Angeles.

Every day, approximately 50,000 commuting trips leave the area bound for central Los Angeles and 115,000 daily work trips are made within the study area, itself. These existing conditions, combined with projected population growth of 24 percent and employment growth of 15 percent over the next 30 years, illustrate the need for additional transit alternatives.

If members of the public are unable to attend any of the scoping meetings they may still submit comments by mail, fax or e-mail. The comments must be received by April 14, 2010.

For questions about technical information related to this project contact Kimberly Yu, Metro Planning Project Manager, Metro Planning, One Gateway Plaza, Mail Stop 99-22-2, Los Angeles, CA, 90012, (213) 922-7910 or e-mail: yuki@metro.net

For questions about public outreach or any community concerns contact Ann Kerman, Constituent Program Manager, Metro Regional Communications, One Gateway Plaza, Los Angeles, CA, 90012, (213) 922-7671 or e-mail: kermana@metro.net. Operator hailed as hero in rescue of small girl

Posted by Kim Upton in Transportation News on February 22, 2010 - 9:44 am

An alert Metro operator is today being hailed as a hero for helping authorities rescue a missing 6-year-old and capture her alleged kidnapper.

Metro operator Helen Brandon will be recognized at Thursday's Metro Board meeting for the quick thinking and action that lead to the recovery of the child just hours after her disappearance.

At around 4 a.m. Sunday, a homeless woman riding a Metro bus in downtown Los Angeles told the driver, Cardell Stewart, she had fallen asleep on the bus and when she awoke, her six-year-old daughter was gone, as was a homeless man she had recognized on the bus but who was not a friend.

The description she offered operator Stewart was transmitted to the Metro bus dispatch center and L.A. County Sheriff's Transit Services Bureau Deputies. Metro dispatch notified Metro operators across the system. About two hours later, operator Brandon called Metro dispatch to report that the child and the suspect were on her bus at Vermont Avenue and 12th Street in South Los Angeles.

Sheriff's deputies intercepted the bus and suspect John Thomas was taken into custody on suspicion of kidnapping. The girl has been placed in protective custody.

Brandon is a part-time operator assigned to Division 5. She joined Metro in 2007.

Eastside Phase 2 meetings begin tonight

Posted by Steve Hymon in Projects on February 22, 2010 - 9:16 am

The public can get the latest news on plans to improve transit in the area east of the Eastside Gold Line extension. Four alternatives are being studied as part of a draft environmental impact report: 1) extending the light rail line along the 60 freeway to South El Monte; 2) extending the light rail line mostly along Washington Blvd. to Whittier; 3) improving bus service in the area, and; 4) not doing anything.

The project is due to get $1.27 billion from the Measure R sales tax increase approved by voters in 2008 and the long-range plan adopted by the Metro Board of Directors last year has a project being completed in the mid 2030s.

The first meeting is being held tonight in Pico Rivera. Three other meetings are scheduled between now and the end of the month.

All the details are after the jump. Here's a link to the project website and the project also has a Facebook page.

Mass transit ridership was down across the United States in the past year, but there's one place that has seen record numbers of passengers of late: Vancouver, home to the Winter Olympics, according to the Sun. A new train line was built in preparation for the Games and lines were especially long on Sunday with some big events in town. One of those, of course, was the United States' awesome, amazing hockey triumph over Team Canada, with both Dustin Brown and Jack Johnson from the Los Angeles Kings playing for the superior American squad.

Wired dreams of a future in which all transportation devices — particular cars — can "talk" to one another, sharing information about which route is the best to take and which to avoid. This kind of "intelligent transportation system" has been under development for a couple of decades and Wired thinks the feds need to spend more money on implementation rather than just research.

On the jobs front, the rail car manufacturer Siemens says it will expand its Sacramento plant to one day build high-speed rail vehicles in response to the Obama Administration's recent award of $8 billion toward HSR projects. Interesting, but I think it's worth noting there is still not one inch of high-speed track anywhere in the United States. CNN posts the press release from Siemens.

The rest of today's transportation headlines, compiled by the Metro library, are after the jump.

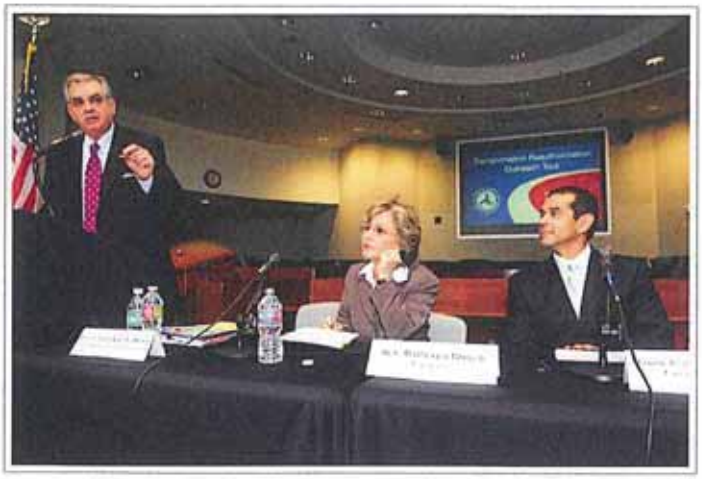
Boxer and LaHood not shy about tackling transpo questions at town hall meeting

Posted by Steve Hymon in Policy & Funding, Projects on February 19, 2010 - 2:22 pm



U.S. Transportation Secretary Ray LaHood speaks to the town hall meeting on Friday morning along with Sen. Barbara Boxer and Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa.

The town hall meeting at Metro headquarters with Sen. Barbara Boxer and U.S. Transportation Secretary Ray LaHood wrapped up a little while ago. The topic: what should be in the massive federal transportation bill that Congress will soon begin debating.

The 90-minute meeting featured short introductory remarks from Boxer and LaHood, followed by a short speech by Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa and then questions from the crowd of invited guests. Here are a few highlights:

•Villaraigosa said that he's putting the finishing touches on his "30/10 plan" to build 12 Measure R projects that are scheduled to be constructed over the next 30 years in the next decade. Villaraigosa said that two of the major selling points are the fact that Metro ranks third overall in terms of ridership among transit agencies in the country and the fact that voters in the county have voted to tax themselves one-and-a-half cents on the dollar to pay for transportation improvements.

•The mayor also said that he wants the next transportation bill to include money for the Westside Subway Extension and the Downtown Regional Connector because the Metro Board of Directors unanimously agreed they should receive federal funding and that both projects will be among the most heavily used transit lines in the country.

•Metrolink Board of Director Chair Keith Millhouse told Boxer and LaHood that he wants the transportation bill to include money for positive train control systems that can stop trains from colliding — as they did in Chatsworth in Sept. 2008. Millhouse added that he was disappointed that neither the stimulus bill or grants announced by LaHood this month provided money for PTC.

Boxer and LaHood tout jobs creation but LaHood says little on subway funding

Posted by Steve Hymon in Policy & Funding, Projects on February 19, 2010 - 11:17 am

It's a big day at Metro HQ in downtown, with Sen. Barbara Boxer and U.S. Secretary of Transportation Ray LaHood here for a town hall meeting on the next federal transportation bill. That is set to start in a few minutes and I'll post about it this afternoon.

In the meantime, Sen. Boxer and Secretary LaHood held a press conference across the street at Metro's downtown bus maintenance facility. Both touted the nearly $1.1 billion from last year's federal stimulus bill that went to transportation projects in Los Angeles County.

Where is that money going? Here's a short list:

•$189 million for the northbound 405 freeway carpool project
•$84 million to muni bus operators.
•$70 million for Blue Line traction power substations.
•$320 million for road maintenance projects.

Federal officials say that these projects have created or saved 11,700 jobs in L.A. County.

During the question period, I asked Secretary LaHood if he could comment on whether the Westside Subway Extension and the Downtown Regional Connector would get federal funding from the New Starts program.

Attentive readers of The Source know that the Federal Transit Administration recently rejected a $77 million request for money for preliminary engineering on both projects because neither project is yet officially a New Starts program.

LaHood's answer: "We will continue to work with our friends in Congress to make funding available for worthwhile projects."

I followed up and asked if he thought the subway and connector were worthwhile projects. LaHood said that he would not evaluate the projects at a press conference.

More on the town hall later....

Apparently, in an attempt to fix the state budget, Governor Schwarzenegger is hoping to turn the Amber Alert boards on California's freeways into full color digital displays that funnel advertising messages to drivers as they commute. There are currently 708 message boards, but the plan is to add another 597. Officials say that selling the rights to just 500 of the screens could lead to $2 billion in revenue over the next 20 years. Distracted driving? We've only just scratched the surface it seems.

The Infrastructurist has a really cool infographic visualizing the commute modes of various major U.S. cities. Houston has the greatest share of people driving cars to work, but L.A. is in a close second. Considering it's sprawling nature and awful traffic, I was surprised to see that Atlanta has a fairly significant segment of the population that commutes via public transit.

Lower speeds make safer streets, we all knew that, but Next American City has some really eye opening stats that prove it. Take this for example: 5% of people die when struck by a motorist going 20 miles per hour versus 85% when a vehicle is going 40 miles per hour. Twice as fast, seventeen times more deadly. Of course, no one wants to putz around in a car at 20 mile per hour – at least not in America. European cities have been instituting 20 mile per hour zones in cities for quite some time now – and to great success.

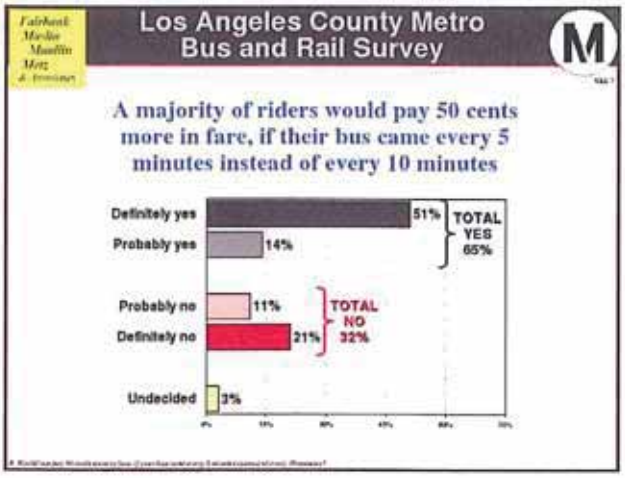
Customer survey indicates Metro riders willing to pay more for improved service

Posted by Fred Camino in Inside Metro, Policy & Funding on February 19, 2010 - 8:38 am



In December, the consulting firm Fairbanks, Maslin, Maullin, Metz & Associates was hired by Metro to conduct a survey of Metro riders to gauge customer opinions on bus and rail service and pricing scenarios as the agency struggles with its finances. Over the course of three days the firm conducted telephone surveys of 400 riders who were randomly selected from a pool of riders who had previously filled out on-board surveys.

Perhaps the most interesting finding was that riders seem to be willing to pay a higher fare for faster and more frequent service. In response to the question, "Would you pay 50 cents more in fare, if your bus came every 5 minutes instead of every 10 minutes?" 65% of respondents said "Definitely yes" or "Probably yes."

To the question, "Would you be willing to spend an extra dollar for express bus service resulting in a quicker trip and fewer stops over regular bus service with more stops to the same destination?" 57% responded "Definitely yes" or "Probably yes".

Given the choice between cutting service or raising fares, 53% of respondents preferred maintaining current service levels with higher fares.

When asked about a completely different pricing structure than the current one, 53% of respondents said they would rather pay $2 to be able to ride the entire Metro system for two hours rather than paying $1.25 for a single trip.

Fifty-nine percent of respondents said they would prefer a quicker trip, even if it involved a transfer from bus to rail rather than a longer trip on a single bus line.

Does any of this mean that fares are going up?

10 essential Los Angeles transportation blogs

Posted by Fred Camino in Metro Lifestyle, Transportation News on February 18, 2010 - 3:52 pm

Streetsblog LA is an invaluable resource for alternative transit news in Los Angeles.

While The Source is our favorite web site for local transportation news, it's far from the only one. In fact, there's a plethora of sites and blogs out there created by dedicated Angelenos that have been keeping the transportation dialogue at the forefront long before this blog was a twinkle in Metro's eye.

We have plans to implement links to our favorite sites on the sidebar in the near future, but until then here's a list of 10 great local transportation sites that are worth checking out:

- Streetsblog Los Angeles – http://la.streetsblog.org/
  This is the premiere news source for local news for alternative transportation junkies. If you're a motoring enthusiast, stay away, but if you're into walking, biking, or public transit – and want a friendlier city for those modes – Streetsblog LA's coverage and advocacy is second to none. This stylishly designed blog is updated multiple times a day, features active and insightful comment threads and some of the best guest contributors in the city. Streetsblog LA has plans for expanded coverage in the coming year with additional writers, Spanish language stories and a budget for video features.
- SoapBoxLA – http://soapboxla.blogspot.com/
  The blog of community activist Stephen Box, SoapBoxLA goes behind the scenes of L.A.'s political landscape in an attempt to improve mobility and neighborhoods. Box attends meetings, interfaces with politicians and hits the streets armed with a video camera to come up with his lengthy and informative postings. Unafraid to voice his opinion (and dissent), SoapBoxLA is a must read.

Two routes are under consideration for this phase

The Gold Line Eastside Extension just opened last November, but Metro is already working on extending the line ven further from its East L.A. terminus (and not to be confused with the Gold Line's Foothill Extension, which will break ground this summer continuing it east from Pasadena). Someday, L.A. County residents could be hitting the rails to South El Monte or down to Whittier.

In January 2009, Metro was considering four routes, but has whittled them down to two, along with the options of doing nothing or improving bus service in the area. In order for them to proceed, they must meet with the public and gather input about the current plan. Meetings are scheduled for next week:

Monday, February 22
Pio Pico Women's Center
6 p.m. to 8 p.m.
9214 Mines Avenue
Pico Rivera

Wednesday, February 24
South El Monte Senior Center (dining room)
6 p.m. to 8 p.m.
1556 Central Avenue
South El Monte

Thursday, February 25
Senior Center at City Park, South Wing
6 p.m. to 8 p.m.
115 South Taylor Avenue
Montebello

Saturday, February 27
The Salvation Army Santa Fe Springs (Studio 12000)
10 a.m. to 12 p.m.

12000 East Washington Boulevard
Whittier
